DAILY SPORT LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, Oct. 24.—As the football season advances it becomes more and more apparent that the new style of game now in force has closed the gap that once divided the big and the little colleges, and placed the smaller colleges in a position where they can furnish a real battle, with a chance for victory, against their heavier foes.

The "dope" has been upset with much frequency so far during the football season, and more upsets are coming.

The new style of football has revolutionized the game. It has transformed football from an open-and-shut proposition that the heavier teams will beat the weaker one, to a game of uncertainty. It has made left and right almost nil and has increased three-fold the value of brains and speed.

The University of Pittsburgh team stands out just now as a shining example of the radical change the new style game has wrought. The Pittsburgh university never had a real football running until last year when it began using the new style game with great success. This year it is using it with wonderful results. If the chips were to get their learning in the Pittsburgh institution keep up the pace they have maintained to date they will be in position, at the end of the season, to dispute the claim of Harvard, Yale, Princeton or Dartmouth of any other eleven for the football championship of the East.

The Pittsburgh outfit tackled Cornell in the first game of the season and beat the Ithacans 9 to 3. They triumphed 21 to 10 over the heavy and fast Westminster team on the following Saturday. On October 10 they surprised the football world by smothering the powerful defense of the Navy eleven, scoring four touchdowns and winning 13 to 6. They followed up this feat with a 6 to 3 victory over Carleton last week. And the best part of it all the eleven seems to have just now struck its stride.

Washington & Jefferson, a college that has only about one sixth as many pupils to draw from as has Harvard, tackled the Crimson eleven on October 10 and the Crimson team was mighty lucky to gain a 10 to 9 victory. Tufts, another small college, played Harvard to a standstill in the first stages of last Saturday's game, and it was only superior weight and endurance that Harvard was able to nose out a 13 to 6 victory.

The light Lehigh eleven held the powerful Yale eleven scoreless for three periods when the teams clashed on October 10.

Syracuse, with a much lighter team than Princeton, and a less experienced team, used the new style of play against the Tigers on October 10 and Princeton was lucky to win out 12 to 7.

Rutgers, a college that has to draw its football men from an enrollment of only a few hundred, is an adept at the new style game. Rutgers has shown how the new style game has benefited the small colleges. In other years, Princeton and the other big college eleven that played against Rutgers simply swamped the light eleven from New Brunswick, N. J. But it was different this year. Rutgers held Princeton to a 12 to 0 victory and held the powerful Army eleven to a 13 to 0 victory.

And so, from the things that have come to pass in a football way so early in the season, we may sit back and prepare ourselves for a few more shocks before the final whistle sounds that will cause the curtain to fall on the 1914 football season.

The football spotlight will be focussed oftentimes today upon the three "big games"; Michigan vs. Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y.; Dartmouth vs. Princeton at Princeton and Cornell vs. Brown on the Polo grounds, New York.

The "dope" favors Michigan, Dartmouth and Brown. But don't base your betting decision on what the "dope" points out.

The Michigan-Syracuse game will be "the game" of the day. It will give the football enthusiasts a line on what Michigan may do against Harvard on the 31st. The game ought to be a thriller.

Michigan has the edge as the teams go into battle. Syracuse is lighter than Michigan, but not speedier. The teams are about evenly matched in general knowledge of the new style game. Michigan has the punting edge and also the weight edge when it comes to line smothering.

Judged on the showings of the teams so far, Dartmouth ought to beat Princeton. The 1914 Tigers haven't played up to the usual Princeton standard, while Dartmouth once again, has a lucky, fast eleven. Princeton may do a "come back" this afternoon—and it may not.

Brown has played some great football during the past few weeks, and on comparative showings ought to beat Cornell. However, Cornell, after a poor start seems to have rounded into form and may put up a great fight. Harvard tackles Penn State, and Harvard seems to have a large job ahead of it. The Pennsy boys have been travelling at a fast gait. Yale meets Washington and Jefferson did Yale, like Harvard has husky task before it. The Yale eleven has rounded into fine shape during the past few weeks. So has the crack W. & J. team, whose greatest ambition is to beat the Bill game. And today the opportunity offers.

FOOTBALL

INCOME TAX IS SHORT

Washington, Oct. 23.—Unless the experts who figured out the "taxables" when Congress was working on the income tax law were far at sea in their calculations there are more than 140,000 income tax dodgers who have evaded the internal revenue collector and failed to pay their share of the toll. According to figures made public last night by the Secretary of the Treasury, $37,608 returns were made under the income tax law during the fiscal year just ended. The estimates on which Congress did much of its work on the act gave a total of 425,000 taxable incomes. These estimates did not include incomes between $10,000 and $40,000. According to last night's statement 70,426 returns were made on incomes between these limits so that the total discrepancy between the estimates and the incomes is 146,828.

It was not expected at the time that these estimates would prove correct, but to have the actual returns fall so far below the estimates has led to the belief that out of the 140,000 missing there must be many delinquents. The internal revenue bureau months ago announced that it had begun a campaign to detect dodgers. The campaign has been pushed vigorously, and it is understood that results may be forthcoming soon.

Every effort will be made to catch violators, for the law has turned in about $28,000,000 for the payable ten months of last year instead of about $45,000,000 as had been expected. Not a single class of incomes lived up to the hopes of the estimators. In the $5000 to $10,000 class, however, the discrepancy was greatest, the estimates being 178,000 and the returns 101,718. Incomes from $4000 to $5000 were only found to number 114,484, while the estimates was 126,000.

The announcement showed that 44 returns were made on incomes over $10,000, ninety-one on incomes between $6000 and $10,000 and 222 on incomes between $2500 and $5000.

000, and 1841 on incomes between $100,000 and $250,000. The estimates were these figures near the estimate which put the $100,000 incomes at 100, the next at $50, the next at $200 and the $100,000 to $250,000 at 2500.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Senate yesterday ratified peace commission treaties with Paraguay and Sweden and a treaty with the Republic of Panama fixing the boundaries of the Canal Zone. The Panama treaty embodied the boundary agreement fixed in 1904 by General George W. Davis, then governor general of the Canal Zone, and representatives of Panama.

TEST NEW TORPEDO RUDDER

Experiments with a new torpedo-steering device are being made at the torpedo station. It is the invention of a Newport man and so far the trials have been encouraging. By first setting the mechanism to a predetermined course, the torpedo can be made to turn any number of angles, to zig-zag and even to describe a circle at any distance within its range. This ability to turn and twist of course multiplies the torpedo's chances of hitting a vessel. It is especially adapted to use in harbors and streams and where there are obstructions.

Should Calm Themselves.

There are those who imagine, or think they do, that the present war will be the last, being so great and horrible as to teach the nations the folly and wickedness of settling their differences on the field of carnage instead of by the quiet processes of peace and diplomacy.

But it is evident that Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts does not belong in this class. If he means what he says—and there is every reason to believe he does, for he is known as a sincere as well as a very earnest man—he does not believe the end of wars has been reached or that it is in sight, and is anxious to have the United States put itself at once on a war footing which would compare more favorably with the preparations maintained by the European nations for years prior to the present outbreak. He has offered a resolution in the House providing for a commission to investigate the preparedness—what he really means is what he considers the unpreparedness—of this country for war.

In support of this resolution Mr. Gardner points out what appear to him like woeful weaknesses in the country's preparedness for defense. He says our navy stands a bad third among the navies of the world, and reminds us that we cannot improvise battleships and the various paraphernalia of war at a moment's notice. The army as well as the navy needs attention, in Mr. Gardner's opinion, although the navy would be the principal element of defense against a foreign foe. He says this country has reassured itself with the thought that it could prepare for war after the beginning of war, but that it is little less than criminal to proceed further on such a basis. "To arms! to arms!" is virtually the cry of Mr. Gardner, whose attitude and warning must be highly comforting to the alarmists who are always seeing the country confronted by grave dangers for which it is totally unprepared.

But there is really no occasion for alarm. The United States has been able to take very good care of itself up to this time and will continue to do so without recourse to a policy which has rendered Germany a target for the criticism of the world. Congressman Gardner and those who share his views should calm themselves. The United States needs no commission to investigate its preparedness or unpreparedness for war. It has too many commissions already.

Prohibition as tried on the Russian army has worked so well that the emperor has decided never again to permit the sale of alcoholic drinks by the government. That may be good so far as it goes, but unless the interdiction applies to individuals as well as to the government it is to be feared that vodka will not become an unknown quantity in the realm of the Bear.

The president of the Massachusetts Agricultural college said in an address the other day that three fourths of the students in the institution are city bred men. The same is probably true of the other agricultural colleges of the country, but let no one jump to the conclusion that this indicates a movement "back to the soil," for it doesn't.

The canning departments of the Chicago packing houses are running overtime to fill orders resulting from the foreign war. Cattle suitable for canning are being shipped in from Canada, Mexico and the southern states, but no one will know the difference when the goods reach the market.

Now that the canning season is practically over, the wholesale dealers give out the comforting news that the price of sugar is going down. But the news will be acceptable to housewives, even if most of them are through putting up "sass" for this year.

Farmers in some parts of the country are reported to be having hard work to market their apples at prices that will little more than pay for the picking. It now remains for some wiseacre to bob up and tell them this is because they didn't spray their trees.

Chicago is still busy with its police scandal, and even the detective bureau has been raided. It is not understood, however, that any of the officers have been guilty of murder or of instigating murder.

The Panama canal is again doing business, though not all of the mud that slid in some days ago has been removed. And there were plenty of ships waiting to go through at this second opening.

Direct primaries were designed to let the people rule, but the small use of them would indicate that the majority of the voters are willing to let other people rule.

The campaigners are now very busy. The time is short and it is evident that they purpose to improve it.

Europe Fast Becoming One Great Hospital, As Well as Graveyard, as Result of War.

Europe is fast becoming one great hospital as well as a graveyard. Thousands have been killed, and scores of thousands have been wounded. The picture shows an English army ambulance at Amiens, France. An injured soldier is being helped out of the conveyance. He had been shot in the battle of the Aisne. He refused to be carried into the hospital on a stretcher. "They may carry me out of the hospital," said he, "but I'll walk in." Later they did carry him out, dead.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Big Hearted Cyrus.

Cyrus A. Sulloway, big hearted Cyrus, whose human sympathy is as broad and large as himself, is again a candidate for Congress from the first district. His long life has been devoted to helping those who needed a stronger arm and a more weighty voice than their own. As a lawyer his most numerous clients were people in misfortune. None ever left Mr. Sulloway's office because they were without funds to maintain their rights. As a Congressman it was the soldier, the sailor's widow, and the wage earner who enlisted Mr. Sulloway's interest. If every client whom he has befriended, if every constituent for whose interests he has voted and pleaded in the halls of Congress were to cast his ballot for Mr. Sulloway, his majority would be phenomenal.

Mr. Sulloway was in Congress eighteen years, standing squarely and strongly for protection to American labor against the competition of the underpaid labor of Europe. Two years ago he was defeated for re-election by Mr. Reed through a division of the Republican party. In those two short years Mr. Reed in the assistance he has given to his Democratic colleagues in Congress has succeeded in undoing much of the work that Mr. Sulloway defended for eighteen years previous. If Mr. Reed has been moved by thought of the mill operatives in his district, who during Mr. Sulloway's long term of service had constant employment on full time and good wages, he was unfortunate in his influence with his Democratic associates in Congress. He has failed his constituents.

The choice is again between Mr. Sulloway and Mr. Reed, between the man whose entire professional and public life has been in human touch with his struggling fellow men and the man who whatever his sympathies has voted against the interests of those whose success is in the daily wage they earn. For eighteen years no constituent of Congressman Sulloway, however humble, who could not command his attention of his representative if he sought his aid. It was no perfunctory response that Mr. Sulloway gave but a whole hearted interest, and all too often he gave aid from his own purse if the request could not otherwise be met.

After eighteen years of service Mr. Sulloway returned to his home poorer in pocket than when he began, but without complaint. His doing and his giving had been in response to his sympathetic thought for those whom he represented and whose cause he made his own. Then followed two years when there was a change of policy at Washington. The certainty of employment began to fail, the pay envelope began to shrink, and the voters of the first congressional district began to ask the cause. When the primary came to hand these men who had known better times turned to Sulloway, and without making any campaign he was nominated by a majority over two opponents.

When the election is held the people of the first district are most likely to contrast conditions when Sulloway was a Congressman with conditions while Reed has represented them, and call once more for big hearted Cyrus. It is so easy to forget the causes when all things move well. Perhaps it needed just this two years of Democratic government to remind them of Sulloway's service in their interest. The change they thought could do no harm has brought its tribulations. Once more they need help to repair the damage done. What more natural than that in distress they should turn again to him who had been their friend for so many years in their days of trouble. The truth has come home to them that Sulloway had never been found misrepresenting them.—Nashua Telegraph.

When men sit around and twiddle their thumbs and tell each other business is "going to be bad," their predictions are apt to come true—for them. Times are as good as we make them and no better.

The "live wires" are not complaining. They are hustling. They are not waiting for opportunities. They are making them.

Turn to the advertising columns of the live daily newspapers and you see the men who are going after business now. They are getting it, too.

CURRENT OPINION

Germany Discontented, Solicitous of Admiration, Careless of International Law.

I cannot understand why Germany has not been contented with her wonderful progress since the battle of Waterloo. For the last half century she has been the centre of Europe—courted by many, feared by many, treated with deference by all. No country has had such a reign of prosperity and splendor. Yet all the time she has been discontented, solicitous of admiration, careless of international law, worshipping force and giving us all to understand that her triumphs in the past and her power in the present were little compared to what she sought in the future.

And now the great collision has come, and it is well that the democratic nations of the world—the nations, I mean, where the people own the government and not the government the people—should realize what is at stake. The French, English and American systems of government by popular election and parliamentary debate, with the kind of civilization which flows from such institutions, are brought into direct conflict with the highly efficient imperialist bureaucracy and military organization of Prussia. That is the issue. No parsimony is required to make it plain. No sophistry can obscure it.—By Winston Churchill, First Lord English Admiralty.

MANY TOURISTS HAVE ARRIVED IN CALIFORNIA

Ernest Holmes, a Former Resident, Writes Interestingly of Pacific Coast.

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 13, 1914.

The advance guard of the hosts that are expected to come to California during the next twelve months or more are beginning to arrive. In the last ten days more than ten thousand tourists, mostly from the middle west, have reached Los Angeles. A little later will come the winter tourists, and after them on the opening of the expositions at San Diego and San Francisco, it is expected that hundreds of thousands will visit the Golden State.

Most every one here is looking forward to a prosperous boom for the whole state of California.

The opening of the Panama Canal means a great deal to this section as well as to New York, and New England. Already the steamer Atlantic has reached here from Boston, coming by the way of the Canal and bringing an assorted cargo of New England manufactured goods. She will return with a cargo of Columbia river canned salmon, California canned fruits and other products. A steamer has also arrived from New York, making the trip in eighteen days.

On this side a steamer is loading with Oregon pine which is to be shipped to the Atlantic coast.

Millions of dollars are being spent by the city of Los Angeles and the National government to make a harbor for that city. This is being done by building an immense breakwater out into the Pacific ocean. Large warehouses and immense docks have also been constructed on the water front.

Los Angeles is a beautiful and rapidly growing city with many large commercial and banking buildings in use, and under construction. These compare pretty favorably with those of our eastern cities. One of these buildings in which is the largest department store on the coast; there is also a theatre at which Harry Lauder is playing.

Land in this section seems very high compared with the east. But if one reckons the climate to offset the cost, which one has to pay back there, perhaps it is not so high, after all. At any rate, much of it is changing hands every day and prices are going up all the time.

Many people come here and are disappointed because they cannot get work. This country needs factories and needs them badly, and it seems strange there are not more. Here is plenty of raw material, such as cotton, wool and leather, with plenty of cheap power, such as natural gas, crude oil, and hydro-electric. And yet there are but few factories with the exception of those working steel, and only two shoe factories in the whole of Southern California. Los Angeles is growing towards the sea and some manufacturing towns are springing up in that section. The Standard Oil people are building a manufacturing city at El Segundo, and at Torrance, a city which is laid out on most improved plans, the Pacific Electric Railway, the largest inter-urban railway in the world will erect immense car building shops. These cities will sometime be equals of Richmond, Cal., and possibly Gary, Ind., at any rate they have a good start with their industries, graded and curbed streets and public buildings.

Southern California has a network of elegant boulevards which have nearly all been built during the past two years. Automobiles are very numerous and a horse is seldom seen. The secretary of the Pasadena Automobile Club told me today that there were nearly 40,000 autos in Los Angeles county alone. The city streets are kept very clean and free from dust, and papers. They are washed clean by a watering cart which has a hose nozzle attached to one side of the sprinkler and from which the water comes with such force that it washes everything into the gutters and down the sewer trap.

The bungalow homes of this section of California are very beautiful and attractive. Many of them have built-in features, such as buffets, bookcases, desks, cupboards, coolers, disappearing beds, etc. Gas is used for cooking, and housekeeping is much easier than in the East.

The flowers here are beautiful, particularly the roses. I saw some the other day that grew on the ends of the stalks. They were nearly as large as a rose peony and very fragrant. Fruits and vegetables are very cheap, while meats, groceries, clothing and jewelry are not as expensive as in Portsmouth. Our living expenses are very much less than they were in New Hampshire.

We are having some warm weather, the thermometer having been in the nineties at noontime for several days. But it is not as uncomfortable as it was the day we left Boston.

I have started a vegetable garden, and the peas which I planted in September are now in bloom.

We are about twenty miles from the ocean and two miles from the base of Mt. Lowe. This place seems to agree with me and we shall remain here for the present.

My automobile came Tuesday and this forenoon Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Holmes and yours truly took a very delightful auto ride in the surrounding country. Regards to all.

ERNEST HOLMES.

CONVENTION A GREAT SUCCESS

secretary. The executive committee consisted of Mr. Richard Whorlsey, Miss Bertha Blumet, Mr. E. Spaulding, Miss Elizabeth Averill, and Prof. A. K. Hardy.

The classical section was held in the High school hall at 10 o'clock this morning. The first speaker was Dr. Alfred R. Wrightman of Phillips-Exeter Academy, who spoke on the subject of "A Lee Shore." The greater part of his address was devoted to the discussion of questioned translations of Caesar.

Miss Helen M. Coffey, of Nashua High school, next read an article entitled, "Making the Past Alive." In her address, the speaker endeavored to show that the only proper way to teach ancient history is to make it a live topic—to make it up-to-date. To do this, to teach ancient history properly, a teacher should be alive to her subject, and know it thoroughly. In the course of her talk, Miss Coffey showed some of the up-to-date methods used by her in interesting students in ancient history.

The third speaker of the morning was Professor A. H. Rice, of Boston University, who took for his subject, "The Roman Commuter and His Epic." This paper dealt with some comparisons, in the Latin literature of the Silver Age, with the facts of everyday life today, with particular reference to the life in the suburbs of Rome in the classical period.

The fourth and last address on the program was "The Ancient World of Pannonia Mea," by Professor H. E. Burton, of Dartmouth College. In his address, Prof. Burton attempted to show the limits of geographical knowledge in the first century A. D.

All of the papers were listened to with great interest by a large audience.

The session adjourned at 12.30 o'clock, for lunch.

Friday Afternoon's Session

At the opening of Friday afternoon's session President E. T. Fairchild of

New Hampshire College gave the following address on "The Relation of the State College to the Public School, He said:

"The inter-relation of the public schools and New Hampshire College is a matter of great moment educationally. And I am thankful for this opportunity to present to the school men and women here assembled the views of the institution which I have the honor to represent as to the opportunities and responsibilities of the college in relation to the other parts of the state.

"The State College of New Hampshire is the culmination of a school system controlled by the citizens of this commonwealth to produce a citizenship, capable, efficient, moral. Its function is two-fold: the training of the youth and the giving of direct service to the people of the state. In the responsibility of affording a higher education it is but a continuation of the public school system.

"Taking its material from the schools of the state it is earnest in its desire to render special service to those schools and with this in view I can announce that next year New Hampshire College will install a department of education. Its object will be to the department of secondary schools of New Hampshire teachers, trained not alone in the subjects which they are to teach, but trained, also in pedagogy, the science of teaching. It is with this conviction in mind that trustees have authorized the installation of this new department, which will begin to receive students next fall. A brilliant opportunity is offered here to render service as well as to educate the youth and in this way both of the principal reasons for being which the state college has fulfilled.

"With a gain of almost 100 in its enrollment this year, New Hampshire College hopes to grow even more in the year to come. This year one of the most marked gains was in the two-year course in agriculture. The popular response to this offering to the young men of the state who have found themselves unable to give the time to a full college course moves this college to extend the opportunity next year to young men who find themselves able to make out a partial course in engineering work. This will be a two-year course in engineering paralleling that in agriculture and marking the beginning of an attempt to render the same service to the people of the manufacturing towns and cities of the state that the college has given in the past to the people in the rural communities.

"New Hampshire College is a progressive institution and is nowhere more modern than in its attitude towards the entrance requirements.

Entrance Requirements

"The evolution of the present fairly common standard of entrance requirements constitutes a most interesting study. There are three phases of this development: One, an attempt to raise the standards of the high schools; a second, a tendency to liberalize entrance requirements; the third a movement to secure uniformity of entrance requirements among colleges.

"Fifteen units is the standard requirement in entrance to colleges today. The number of prescribed units fluctuates greatly among the various colleges and universities. The average number of prescribed units in colleges of liberal arts in English is 2.9; in mathematics, 2.3; in foreign languages 4; in natural science 5; in history 1. In engineering colleges the prescribed units for entrance requirements are 2 in English; 3.1 in mathematics; 2 in foreign languages; 1 in natural science, and 9 in history and civics. The only colleges requiring more than 3 units in English are the liberal arts colleges, University of Idaho, Notre Dame, Indiana, University of Minnesota, Carleton College, Minn., Gustavus Adolphus College, Minn., University of Montana and University of Washington. Eighty-nine of the 293 liberal arts colleges will not accept more than 3 units of English. Seven of the 31 agricultural colleges will not accept more than three units of English.

Among 23 colleges admitting students without foreign languages are the following: Lehigh University, University of Chicago, Clark College, University of Minnesota, University of Illinois, Columbia University, New York, Grinnell College, Iowa and University of Wisconsin. There are seven colleges admitting students with out mathematics.

"Based upon these usages and a deep conviction of right, New Hampshire College one year ago changed its prescribed entrance requirements as follows: Three units of English; two units of a foreign language; two units of mathematics, except in engineering where three units were prescribed as a prerequisite; one unit of social science, including history, and one unit of natural science. Thus nine units out of a possible 15 were prescribed for entrance to New Hampshire College. One extra unit required in mathematics, makes the total for the engineering division 10 units. At the same time that these requirements were determined upon for New Hampshire colleges it was agreed that a vocational group, including agriculture, domestic science, manual training, drawing, bookkeeping, stenography, and typewriting, would be recognized as entrance units provided such preparation is of a quality which meets with the approval of the state superintendent of public instruction. It was further decided that candidates for the agricultural and the arts and science divisions must, upon entrance to college present two units other than vocational units constituting a second major of three units. At the same time it was agreed that a candidate for admission to the art and science division may substitute for the two units of a foreign language one additional unit in a social science and one in natural science. It was also agreed that a candidate for admission to the arts and science division who presents two units of a foreign language may substitute for the two units of mathematics one additional unit in natural science and one additional unit in social science.

Announces Changes

"Recently the faculty because of its conviction that it could serve equally well the educational interests of the youth of this state and because of representations made by the honorable superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Morrison, decided to make some further changes in the entrance requirements of the state college. I am pleased to announce to you therefore, that the number of prescribed units for entrance to this institution in the fall of 1915, is 7 in the arts and science and the agricultural division, and eight in the engineering division. A foreign language is no longer a requisite for entrance to this institution. While it is hoped that there will be no considerable falling off in the number of candidates who offer a foreign language as entrance units, nevertheless it will be possible for any candidate to secure admission without training in a foreign language, provided he presents all of the prescribed units to make a total of 15 units. This extra unit is in engineering and represents an additional year's work in mathematics.

"It is believed that this change will in no wise affect the standard at the institution. There has been no question in our minds as to the disciplinary and cultural value of a study of a foreign language. We have however agreed that one may be thoroughly educated without this particular form of training. We are glad thus to open the doors to the intelligent youth of this state, who for any substantial reason has not been trained in a foreign language but have secured an excellent English training.

"While we remember that the University of Chicago in its entrance requirements prescribes but three units of English; that Lehigh Stanford prescribes none; that in the University of Wisconsin, but six units are prescribed, and that we recall the entire list of 22 colleges making no requirement of a foreign language, we feel certain that this action on the part of the faculty of New Hampshire college is a proper one and that it has the sanction of our largest and most influential institutions.

Dr. Goddard followed with a continued talk on his address of the morning on "What Can Be Done for the Backward Child" and it was a fine treatment of a very interesting subject.

At four o'clock Supt. E. W. Rutland of Dover secretary of the Educational Council, made his report and this was followed by reports of committees and other business.

RELEASED IN $1000 BAIL

Ernest Hoyt Charged With Shooting Harry Williams on Gerrish Island.

Ernest Hoyt of Kittery who was arrested on Thursday last by Sheriff Jones of Kennebunk charged with having fired the shot that caused the death of Harry A. Williams, while out gunning on Gerrish Island on Saturday evening October 3, was arraigned at South Berwick on Friday and was held for the grand jury. He was released on the furnishing of $1000 bail.

He made a brief statement in connection with the affair to the effect that the shooting was the result of an accident that he thought young Williams was a deer. He said he crept up through some bushes toward the spot where Williams was at the time he met his death. Hoyt was accompanied by his nephew, Clarence H. Ames, 16 years of age. Both were too much frightened about the shooting to admit guilt and kept the matter secret until a short time before the arrest. All four of the parties immediately concerned, viz: Williams, his companion, Virgil Lynch; Hoyt and Ames were close friends.

Deputy Sheriff Jones of Kennebunk has been persistently investigating the case ever since the day it happened. He obtained a number of valuable clues, but the most valuable of all was from young Ames, who finally admitted the shooting to the officer, told the story of the affair and later signed a confession which reads as follows:

"My uncle and I went down gunning and went through a field and then into the woods and crept up behind a rock. My uncle saw Harry stoop down and do something. My uncle thought it was a deer and fired. We then went back a few steps and when Lynch shouted we went down. (Signed.)

"Clarence Hoyt Ames."

This confession was made Thursday afternoon and was witnessed by Percy D. Greenleaf.

Hoyt, who is 26 years of age, married, and has one child, was arrested by Deputy Jones at his home in Kittery Point. He confessed the shooting to the officer, to his own father and mother and to Williams' father.

WANT SIXTEEN INCH GUNS FOR COAST DEFENSE

Washington, Oct. 23.—An urgent plea for more men to garrison the country's coast defenses was made by Brigadier General E. M. Weaver, chief of coast artillery, in his annual report, submitted yesterday, to Secretary Garrison. He said that the proposed forts at Cape Henry in command of the Chesapeake Bay calling attention to the fact that many of the foreign warships of latest design are to carry guns larger than 14 inches in calibre. General Weaver asked that 16-inch guns be provided for Cape Henry.

"Otherwise," he said, "these fortifications may be subjected not only to a very much greater volume of fire than can be delivered by them, but also have the disadvantage of replying to that fire with guns of inferior power, both by reason of the diameter of the bore of the gun and by reason of its shorter length."

Of the need for additional artillery-

men, the general said:

"The shortage of coast artillery troops for the United States proper is at the present time so far below the requirements as to make it a matter deserving the serious consideration of Congress." He reported that the 564 officers and 19,988 men below the needed number, explaining that the taking of twenty-five companies, to which must be added twenty-four more in the near future, for service in the Philippines, Hawaii and the canal zone, had crippled the service at home.

"Unless provision is made in the near future," the report continued, "for additional coast artillery personnel, it will be necessary to reduce the garrisons to mere caretaker detachments at some of the defenses of lesser importance, including Portsmouth, Delaware, Charleston, Savannah, Key West, New Bedford, Polynia, Tampa, Columbia, Baltimore, Cape Fear and Mobile."

On Monday evening, Nov. 2, the Colonel will deliver one of his famous lectures, "Fall Out."

My back was so lame at times that I could hardly work and I was troubled by headaches and spells of dizziness. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box and began using them following the directions closely. ## AN OLD DUTCH LEGEND:

How Jantje the Bellringer Saved Stals From the Spaniards.

An old statue in the steeple near the bells at Stals, in Holland, which was originally erected in honor of Jantje van Stals, is worked by mechanical means, which cause it to strike the bell at every hour and a half with a hammer.

Jantje was a bellringer and watchman during the eighty years' war with Spain. On the night of June 12, 1600, Du Terrail, a Spanish captain, resolved to recover Stals, the principal fortress of Zealand, from Prince Maurice of Orange, who had conquered it two years previously.

When the clock struck nine it was arranged that the Spanish soldiers should sound a false alarm at one gate in order to draw the Dutch soldiers away from another, thus leaving a means of ingress for the enemy.

Providentially Jantje forgot to wind up the clock till late in the evening, and, being terribly afraid of ghosts, he did it so hastily that he damaged the works. Another story avers that he was intoxicated, the result of Stals fair, which had been held on that afternoon.

Be that as it may, Terrail waited in vain to hear the familiar striking of the old clock, and thus the attack was put off till midnight. In the meantime the garrison had suspected something amiss and were on the alert. Consequently the Spaniards were repulsed with great loss.

Jantje had accidentally saved his town, and to honor him his fellow citizens erected the bell ringing statue to his perpetual memory.—London Titler.

FREDERICK THE GREAT.

On the 17th of August, 1758, died one of the most remarkable sovereigns Europe ever produced, Frederick II, of Prussia, called Frederick the Great. Thomas Carlyle thus describes him:

"The man is not of godlike physiognomy any more than of imposing stature or costume. Close shut mouth, with thin lips, prominent jaws and nose, revealing brow by no means of Olympian height; head, however, is of long form and has superlative gray eyes in it. Not what is called a beautiful man, nor yet, by all appearances, what is called a happy."

"On the contrary, the face bears evidence of many sorrows, as they are termed; of much hard labor done in this world and seems to anticipate but more still coming. Quiet stoicism, capable enough of what joy there were, but not expecting any worth mentioning; great unconsciousness and some composure, pride tempered with a chery mockery of humor—are written in that old face, which carries his chin well forward in spite of the slight stoop about the neck; snuff nose rather flung into the air under his old cucked hat—like an old snuff box on the watch; and such a pair of eyes as no man or lion or lynx of that century bore elsewhere, according to all the testimony we have."

"This is the man who, among the common people who much loved and esteemed him, was Vater Fritz—Father Fred—a name of familiarity which had not bred contempt in that instance."

Born to Fighting.

Monsieur fighting, Caesar founded it as a camp and a short time later Cleopatra's brother sustained a siege by Ambiorix. His most famous siege was in 1572, delivered by Frederic of Toledo, one of the distinguished generals of Albia. The siege lasted from the end of June to the middle of September; sorties and relief were vain; the town capitulated under the most honorable conditions. In 1691 the Maréchal de Luxembourg attacked the town, inflicted great damage and forced surrender. In 1709 Marlborough and Prince Eugene attacked and carried the town after a siege of 126 days. In 1740 the Prince de Conti laid successful siege. In 1792 Mons was the first fruit of the republican victory at Jemappes, and in 1794 the Austrians were subjected to a crushing defeat.—New York Sun.

The Rose of Sharon.

In Asia the rose of Sharon is considered the emblem of resurrection. Throughout Syria, Judea and Arabia it is regarded with the profoundest reverence. The leaves that encircle the blossoms dry and close together when the season of blooming is over, and the stalk, withering completely and drying in the shape of a ball, is carried by the breeze to great distances. In this way it is borne over the sandy deserts until, touching some moist place, it clings to the soil, where it immediately takes fresh root and springs to life and beauty again.—London Mail.

That Explained It.

"I say, I have just come from my landlord's, and—would you believe it?—I had the greatest difficulty in the world to get him to accept a little money from me."

"Nonsense! And why, pray?"

"Well, because he wanted a lot!"—Liverpool Mercury.

Russian Tipple.

A popular drink among the peasants of Russia is called quass. It is made by pouring warm water over rye or barley meal. It is a fermented liquor and is very sour, but has been used for years by these poverty-stricken people.

The man who does things may make mistakes, but he never makes the greatest mistake of all—doing nothing.

Scrap Book

A Tug of War.

The well dressed, portly man stood for several moments watching the brawny dryskin who was laboriously tugging at a large, heavy laden box, which seemed almost as wide as the doorway through which he was trying to move it.

Presently the kindly disposed onlooker approached the perspiring dryskin and said with a patronizing air: "Like to have a lift?"

"Set yer life," the other replied, and for the next two minutes the two men on opposite sides of the box worked, lifted, puffed and wheezed, but the box stuck fast. They went at it again, but it did not move an inch.

Finally the portly man straightened up and said between sniffs, "I don't believe we can get it in there."

"Get it in?" the dryskin almost shouted. "Why, you blamed unblunt-headed, I'm trying to get it out!"

Blindness.

When I consider how my light is spent Ere half my days in this dark world and wide

And that one talent which is death to hide, Lodged with me useless, though my soul more bent To serve therewith my Maker and present

My true account, lest he returning chide, "Both that exact day labor, both that dead" I fondly ask, But Patience, to prevent That murmur, soon replies: "God doth not need Either man's work or his own gifts. Who best Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best. His state Is kings; thousands at his bidding swell And swell o'er land and ocean without rest. They also serve who only stand and wait."

—Milton.

Labouchere's Debauch.

One day while Labouchere was a schoolboy at Eton (says Thackeray's "Life of Labouchere"), his store of pocket money being at high water mark, he conceived the notion of doing the man about town for an hour or two. So, having dressed himself with scrupulous care, he sallied forth and, entering the best hotel in the place, engaged a private room and in a lordly manner ordered a bowl of punch. The waiter stared, but brought the liquor and went away. The boy, having tasted it, found it horrible. He promptly poured it into the lower compartment of an antique oak sideboard. He waited a little to see whether it would run out on to the carpet. Luckily the drawer was water tight.

THE DRAWER WAS WATER TIGHT.

The Stone Age.

When State Senator Cal Stone of St. Paul was in the passenger department of the Northern Pacific railroad he wrote many bitter letters to the passenger department of the Great Northern.

Suddenly he was made general passenger agent of the Great Northern. As he came in to take his new desk the man he succeeded handed him an immense file of papers.

"Now, did you find?" he said to Stone, "sit down here and answer your own letters!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Proof Positive.

The late Arthur McEwen used to tell of an Irish friend of his who made the statement that the sun is composed of ice and proved it.

"The sun do be made of ice," he said. "Tis not!" contended a hearer.

"Tis so, an' I'll prove it t' ye. Was ye ever in the Comstock mine?"

"I wuz."

"Wuz yez at th' twenty-three hundred level?"

"An' wuz it hot?"

"Hot as th' devil!"

"Well, thin, go out an' have a luk at th' tops of the mountains yonder—all covered with ice an' snow. The nearest to the sun is the colder it is an' the further away th' better. Th' sun do be made of ice!"—Saturday Evening Post.

IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company has filmed George Barr McCutcheon's intimate romance of stage life "What's His Name," with Max Funnin in the leading role.

Oklahoma has 250 moving picture houses.

There are 500 motion picture theatres in Texas.

The City of Indianapolis has 70 theatres showing exclusively the Silent Drama.

In Alberta, Canada, there are 70 "movie" houses.

Francis Bushman's best work thus far this year is in "One Wonderful Night," a four part Essaray Drama. This film was made in conjunction with the stories run in the Ladies' World, it will also be remembered that that magazine conducted a favorite contest to decide who was the most popular actor and the winner should have the lead in the stories. Mr. Bushman won out against such stars as Arthur Johnson, Maurice Costello, Crane Wilbur, and King Baggot. There is a remote possibility that this picture will be seen at the Portsmouth Theatre in the near future.

Barbara Tennant, formerly of the Belair, has joined the World Film Corporation and her first work with her new company will be the leading role in "When Broadway was a Trail" in 5 reels.

Herbert Brennon, who has been connected with the Imp (Universal) for several years, has resigned from the company. Mr. Brennon is an actor of exceptional ability and popularity. Mr. Brennon's plans for the future have not been divulged.

There are approximately 5300 motion houses in Central and South America.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, October 24.—That America will be confronted by a new immigration problem as a result of the European war, which will bring to test the American ideal of Democracy as never before, is the opinion of Mary Antin, herself an immigrant girl, now risen to fame as a writer and lecturer on social topics, who is paying a visit to this city.

Miss Antin comes to deliver an address on "Other People's Children at School," at Ford Hall, Saturday evening, under the auspices of the school voters league. Miss Antin believes that before long an influx of refugees from the war ridden countries of Europe will begin, the vast majority of them being uneducated women and children. She wonders how this country will face the situation. "This problem and every immigration problem can be solved," she said, "if the American people will take to their hearts just one precept: 'Be good neighbors. Do not move away when the foreigners come in to live among you. Do not hurry them too much as they try to absorb American customs. Indeed in the matter of customs the American people would do well to take as well as to give. Each American family can be a settlement house in itself if they will continue to live where they are no matter how many foreigners move in. The slums of our cities are nothing but the result of the Yankees moving away as the foreigners move in.'"

Boston, October 24.—The state board of labor and industries is to conduct an all-day conference on Friday of next week at the Copley Plaza from 10 to 5 o'clock on "Industrial Development and Foreign Extension." Alfred W. Donovan chairing declares the best plan to take advantage of all the national courses of industrial and foreign trade information and place this at the disposal of Massachusetts people.

Boston, October 24.—The State Board of Agriculture will hold its annual public winter meeting for lecturers, discussion and exhibits in Horticultural Hall, and the Chamber of Commerce, Worcester, December 1, 2, and 3. The first day will be given over to poultry, market garden, and ample growing interests. The raising of beef cattle, milk production, house hold accounting, a canning demonstration and an exhibit of canning outfits will be the subject presented for discussion on the same day. On the last day the New England Alfalfa Growers Association will hold its annual meeting. There will be a lecture on Alfalfa Growing, in the morning and in the afternoon the Worcester State Hospital will be visited.

Boston, October 24.—The Prohibition State Committee sends out literature bearing the motto "Organize, Purify, Civilize, and a declaration that the Prohibition Club at an enthusiastic meeting issued its first announcement of the political season in which caustic reference is made to the Progressive party. The announcement declares "Because of its origin and present leadership there is good reason to believe that a large part of the temperance forces in the state and Nation would never fight under the banner of the Progressive party."

SPECIAL REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Portsmouth is to be honored by a visit from a man of brilliant platform ability in the person of Colonel John Dean, who will conduct the six days "Revival Campaign" at the Salvation Army. He was born in Australia, reared beside the Wattle and the gum, in the land of the kangaroo and the boomerang. Educated, like the pioneers of America by arduous study, midst scenes of toil and adversity, he became a Methodist minister, and later joined the Salvation Army, and has become one of the most learned and efficient officers in that world-wide organization.

Colonel Dean was vice principal of the training college in London, Eng., for 12 years, and principal of the New York training college for 4 years. The meetings commence next Wednesday, Oct. 28, to November 2, inclusive. Services each night at 8 o'clock.

ALLIES CUT OFF GERMANS FROM OSTEND

London, Oct. 23.—The German general staff has left Ghent and there are strong rumors of a severe German defeat," says the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Mail.

"Messages from different points of the northwest frontier agree that the German coast army is being rolled up like a ribbon.

"The German cavalry has been unable to manoeuvre in the tangled dune country, and the German big guns are stuck in bogs. By a magnificent attack, it is stated, the Franco-British force have cut the German line south of Ostend."

French Fleet Assisting
Vessels from the French navy, having swept around the coast, were today standing by the British monitors which are hurling shells landward between Ostend and Nieuport, on the Belgian coast, in continuation of the fierce battle between Germany and the allies for the possession of the North sea and the channel ports.

For the first time since the war began aircraft and warships are aiding simultaneously in the movements of land forces; thus the struggle is being waged in the air, on the sea and on the land at the same time.

Great Artillery Duel
The fight so far as Belgium is concerned, has now resolved itself into a terrific artillery duel in which it is claimed that the allies, by reason of their long range guns, are having the advantage.

The muddy roads and the canals doubtless have hindered the invaders in getting guns of equal or greater range into position. When they do accomplish this the situation will be even more tense.

It is said that up to the present time the British naval losses have been negligible, although both sides must have suffered heavily on land. The German claim to have put a British torpedo boat out of action.

MONITORS ROUT GERMANS

Paris, Oct. 23.—The Germans are reported today to have withdrawn their advanced line eastward from Mariakerke and Middelkerke because of the fire of the British monitors. They have heavily entrenched themselves east of the main highway that connects Ostend and Nieuport and have also fortified the line from Wilskerke southeast to Thurnout. The new German headquarters in the north is reported to be at Ghislende.

There has been no cessation of the violent fighting, according to the reports received this morning at Gen. Gallien's headquarters. The Germans are continuing their attempts to break through the line from the north toward Nieuport and from Lille, but at no point have they succeeded.

Fighting Near Verdun

The Germans are also reported active in the east along the heights of the Meuse and near Verdun, where they are shelling the small forts of the Fort-Verdun line.

Reports received here say that a large portion of Lille has been burned. The town has been the centre of fierce fighting between the British and German cavalry, in which there were many hand-to-hand encounters. The allies were finally forced, however, to abandon the city because of the strength of the German forces.

London, Oct. 23.—A dispatch from Tenerife, Canary Islands, to the Daily Mail, under date of Thursday, reports that the German cruiser Karlsruhe has sunk 13 British merchantmen in the Atlantic.

The news of the Karlsruhe's exploit, according to the Mail's correspondent, was brought to Tenerife by the German steamer Creifel, which arrived there with the crews of the British steamers Strathroy, Maple Branch, Highland Hope, Indranti, Rio Iguaçu, Farn, Nioto, Maria de Larrinaga, Cervantes, Carlsby City, Pruth, Condon and Lynrowan, all of which were sunk by the Karlsruhe. The Creifel was sunk by the Karlsruhe.

accompanied into port by the German steamers Patagonia, Rio Negro and Astoria.

A later message states that over 400 men of the crews are prisoners, and that the merchantmen were mostly sunk in the Atlantic. The ships were mostly engaged in the South American trade, and their total tonnage was about 60,000.

Two Americans Made Corporals in Battalion of French Army
Paris, Oct. 23.—Private H. Chalkoff, an American volunteer of Philadelphia, writes from Camp de Mailly, near Chalons-sur-Marne, under date of Oct. 1.

"In battalion C, which includes some of the American volunteers, two Americans have been made corporals, Edward Morley and Edgar Boutigny. The former was a 2d lieutenant of Philippine scouts. Seven other Americans have been made first class soldiers. This is a distinction, though not a promotion. It is a step, however, toward a corporalship. Those receiving this distinction are:

William Thaw of Pittsburg, George Philozot of Tucson, Ariz., Ferdinand Capelle of New York, Weston Hall of Bowling Green, Ky., J. J. Bach of New York, P. Landreux of New Orleans and H. Beaumont.

GERMANS HAVE LOST 200,000.

Petrograd, Oct. 23.—The general staff in an official bulletin made public today says that the German forces are in full retreat from the vicinity of Warsaw. At several points, it is stated, the retreat has taken on the proportions of a complete rout. Many of the German heavy guns have been fired and captured by the pursuing Russians.

So precipitate has been the German retreat that they have been forced to abandon their wounded and large quantities of hospital stores. The crack German corps have been terribly decimated by the Russians, who attacked from front and flank. Russian cavalry is harassing the retreating army, taking numerous prisoners. The reports reaching military headquarters from the front say that the total losses of the Germans—killed, wounded and prisoners—in their operations in Poland to date number 200,000. Fighting is still in progress along the line of the Vistula, and is constantly increasing in magnitude.

AUSTRIA CLAIMS HER ARMY STILL GAINS GROUND

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Information received here from Vienna says it has been announced officially in the Austrian capital that the Austrian troops are still gaining ground. They attacked the Russian fortified positions near Feizytyn Tuesday and stormed the heights to the north of Magiera. They have occupied the last pass across the Carpathian mountains in Russian hands, called the Jabonica pass and Hungarian territory is now completely clear of Russians. In the Crown land of Bukovina the Austrians are advancing toward Sereth.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS ON ROAD TO METZ

Paris, Oct. 23.—The struggle on the lengthened line extending into Belgium, now called the Battle of Flanders, gave rise to an engagement along the coast as near as possible to the birthplace of Jules Verne, in which aircraft and submarines participated, resulting for the first time, in the same encounter, the dreams of the great Frenchman.

The British monitors, offshore did great execution on the German trenches, among those reported killed being Gen. van Trip and his staff. While the Allies' armor cleverly directed the aim of the marine guns, the German submarines lying in wait attacked the monitors, but without result because the latter were so far inshore. Here again, the critics remark that the attempt of the Germans to turn the Allies' left and reach the French coast has been defeated and the Germans again have been forced to resort to frontal attacks.

The gains made by the Allies, on the road to Metz, it is thought, must draw the attention of the Germans seriously to a quarter where they are menaced, not only from the direction

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Mayor Appeals for Boston's Unemployed.

An appeal to the women of Boston to make $100,000 or more to provide work for thousands of laborers and skilled mechanics now out of work, was made by Mayor Curley today to start the fund, request was made that every member of the Women's National Civic Federation and the Women's City Club contribute $10. This would give a "best egg" of $40,000. "The first would be easy," the Mayor declared, "Every one should contribute in this cause, for each contribution means bread and butter to families now on the verge of starvation."

Because of lack of work, jails and charitable institutions are more crowded than ever before at this time of the year. At Deer Island there are 1200 inmates and at Charles Street jail there are fifteen per cent more prisoners than ever before. The Overseers of the Poor have been called to assist a large number of families whose bread-winners are forced into idleness and will spend at least $250,000 more this year than last year for this purpose alone. Arrangements have been made to turn the Way-Street schoolhouse over to the Overseers for use this winter, as a great overflow is predicted. Even now an average of ninety men are being housed in the Hawkins street building, compared with an average of ten every night last year at the corresponding season.

"So hard are the working people being pinched that married people are actually conspiring to get money and board at the expense of getting a prison record," the Mayor said. "In many cases, men have been committed to Deer Island for minor crimes in order to get board and lodging, while their wives receive fifty cents a day from the city. Already we have paid $12,000 in this way, which is 25 per cent more than we paid during all of last year."

Railroads Show Big Loss

Gross earnings of 436 railroads of the country for 1914 decreased $79,479,672 to $2,080,981,632 from the 1913 earnings, according to tables published by the Commercial and Financial Chronicle. Net earnings decreased $110,914,046.

Gross earnings for these railroads for August decreased $14,226,412. Net earnings increased $171,541. All the railroads of the country that earned $100,000 gross a year or included in the compilation.

Not Helped by the War

On the 28th of September the Pennsylvania Steel Company laid off 1,100 of its working force at the Steelton plant. Only about 40 per cent of the men ordinarily employed are at work. Many of these are working only half or three-quarters time. When questioned as to the cause, officials of the company said it was lack of orders due to the general business depression brought on by the Underwood tariff.

MONUMENT UNVEILED TO COL. FLETCHER WEBSTER

Massachusetts, Oct. 23.—A monument to Colonel Fletcher Webster of the Twelfth Massachusetts Regiment, a son of Daniel Webster, killed on the third day of fighting in the second battle of Bull Run, was unveiled here today near the spot where he fell. It is a large boulder from the Webster farm in Massachusetts, Confederate veterans and daughters of the Confederacy assisted. In the exercises, conducted by the Twelfth Massachusetts Regimental Association, Colonel Edmund Herkel, aged ninety-three, commander of the Eighth Virginia Regiment, welcomed the party on behalf of Governor Stuart. Samuel Appleton of St. Paul, Minn., a grandson of Daniel Webster, made a dedication address.

Germany is fighting to establish the validity and permanence of Macht-politik—the doctrine that might makes right. The belief in Macht-politik is not confined to the Kaiser or to the military party. German scholars, philosophers, and ethical teachers believe in it. They believe it is the destiny of Germany to impose German culture, German theories of right and wrong, and the German scheme of civilization upon the human race for the lasting benefit of the human race.

It may be that a thousand years from now the present war in Europe will be discussed by the men of that age as we ourselves now discuss the epochs of the Pharaohs, of Caesar, Hannibal, and Alexander, of Alfred the Great and of William the Conqueror. Those who believe, as we certainly believe, that a power not ourselves, which makes for righteousness is shaping and controlling the evolution of the human race for some great end as yet unrevealed, are convinced that in the roll of centuries the purpose of this war, be the victors who they may, will finally be made clear. But that is not enough for the man whose hopes and desires are fixed upon the immediate fate of his children and his grandchildren, as well as upon the far-distant fate of the human race. He asks himself, sometimes in the deepest anxiety, Under what conditions shall the generation that succeeds me live? He has an instinctive desire and an insatiable right to try to influence those conditions.

As theocracy, or the attempt to make men righteous by force, failed in the New England colonies; as serfdom and slavery, or the attempt to make men industrious by force, failed in Russia and the United States; as feudalism, or the attempt to make men loyal and chivalrous by force, failed in England; and as the spirit of materialistic revolution, or the attempt to make men liberal-minded and intellectually free by force, failed in France—so we believe that the doctrine of Macht-politik, the attempt by Germany to impose a civilization upon humanity by force, must fail—must be made to fail.—The Outlook.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TRUSTEES

John S. Rand Re-Elected President of Portsmouth Hospital.

The annual meeting of the trustees of the Portsmouth Hospital was held on Wednesday, the 21st inst., at the residence of Hon. Woodbury Langdon on Pleasant street. The customary reports were rendered and will be published in full in the annual report for the public, showing the financial condition of the hospital and the excellent work it is doing in our midst.

A large number of patients, 425, have been cured for during the past year, and in the maternity department there has been 49 births.

The total number of day treatments given patients were 6561, of this number 3960 full pay days, 1055 part pay days and 1545 days free to patients.

We learn that the income from all sources has been sufficient to meet expenses, leaving a very small balance to commence the new year.

It is hoped that the day is not far distant when gifts and endowments will be sufficient to meet the annual expenses.

The hospital is one of the most beneficent institutions in our city and in whose continued success residents should take much pride.

The following named officers were re-elected for the ensuing year: President, John S. Rand; secretary, John C. Batchelder; treasurer, Lewis E. Staples.

SECRETARY WILL VISIT ELKS

Reception for Navy Head This Afternoon.

Stevens will visit the home of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks this afternoon where a lunch will be served and an impromptu reception held. The party will arrive at the home at 5.15 after the conclusion of the visit to the navy yard. Many business men connected with the order who have never met the secretary, will take this opportunity to greet him. The visit of the secretary will add more history to the famous building which the Elks occupy and follows that of Mr. President Taft two years ago this month.

The Million Dollar Mystery—Featuring Florence LaBadie and James Cruz Fourth installment of the greatest serial ever filmed. Written by Harold McGrath; published daily in the Boston Globe.

The Mad Man's Ward—Victor A two part drama featuring Miss Florence Lawrence. It is a tragedy with a world of heart interest in every scene; a deep pathos which contrasted with flashing strains of humor, makes this a most remarkable feature.

Mildred's Doll—Broncho, two reels A story of the West, in which a young girl hides the gold in her doll to prevent the outlaws from getting it.

Mutual Weekly—Shows some very interesting scenes of the war; also many other current events.

Fatty Again—Keystone.

Songs by Miss Margaret Pearson. Coming Monday and Tuesday: "The They of Hearts," by Louis Joseph Vance, in fifteen stories, featuring Cleo Madison and George Larkin. The thrilling, sensational problem play.

First installment, three reels. Don't Miss It. CHARLES CHAPLIN in a screaming farce comedy, "Those Love Pangs"—Keystone.

Daniels, arrived at the yard shortly after two o'clock this afternoon, accompanied by Congressmen Reed and Stevens. After the customary salute of 19 guns and the hoisting of the secretary's flag, the heads of the departments and commanders of ships, assembled at the administration building to meet the party. After a visit to the several departments, naval prison, dry dock and detention ships, they returned to Portsmouth and made a visit to the Elks Home.

Credit to the Ship

It is frequently remarked since the arrival of the U. S. S. San Francisco at the yard of the courtesy and interest shown by the officers and enlisted men when engaged in showing visitors about the vessel. The service does nothing in matters of this kind and such kindness is a credit to the ship's company.

New Radio Man

Gottfried Muehl, electrician, radio, first class, from the receiving ship Franklin at Norfolk reported for duty at the radio station today.

It Looks Good.

The outlook today indicates that the present force at the yard will be steadily employed up to March.

The guard rail on the Maplewood avenue bridge needs immediate attention. It is very dangerous especially for children. The rail is disconnected in several places from the granite blocks and a slight touch makes it sway back and forth, leaving an aperture large enough for a grown person to fall through.
